A Letter from Library Director Ellen Dolan

Every day, my staff and I receive questions such as "When are they going to start the demolition?" "When will the building start?" Or "How come nothing is happening over there?" People are eager to see activity at the Main Street site, so I thought I would explain why all has looked (deceptively) quiet at the "old library".

To give a clear explanation, I must describe the typical design phases for a municipal construction project. A project typically starts with a feasibility study, work then proceeds on to the Schematic Design phase, before moving on to the more detailed and lengthy design phases called Design Development and Construction Drawings. Most voters are familiar with the school project timelines, which are partially funded by grants from the state's School Building Authority (SBA). SBA projects require that drawings have progressed through Design Development before bringing the project to voters. So once approved, only the Construction Drawings phase lies ahead. With the library project, which was partially funded by a $7.9 million grant from the Massachusetts Public Library Construction Grant program, only a feasibility study was required before seeking voter approval. However, the Library Building Committee, knowing that voters would want more information with which to make an informed decision, had the architects proceed through the Schematic Design phase. They decided however, not to proceed further into the lengthier and more costly Design Development and Construction Drawing phases, as this major expense would be wasted if the voters did not approve the project.

Thus, when voters approved the Library project in November 2013, nine to ten months of Design Development and Construction Drawings design work lay ahead. In the month following the November 2013 project vote, the Town Manager finalized contracts with the architects and project manager for the upcoming work. Since early December 2013 the Project Manager and the Architectural team have been hard at work on the design and planning for the project. Design Development Drawings were completed in April 2014, and Construction Drawings were done in December 2014. The bidding process started up in early December and proceeded through January. Which brings us to the phase everyone is eagerly waiting for—for work to actually begin at Main Street! By the time this letter arrives in your mailbox, you likely will have seen construction fences in place, the installation of a construction trailer on the site, the contractor preparing the site for demolition and construction—essentially you will be able to see that the project really will be happening! Besides the design, there has been a lot of other work going on.

A sampling of activities includes:

- The fundraising campaign continues, with over $1 million raised of the $1.75 Million goal
- Architectural historians have been conducting research in the original 1903 building to determine original colors, lighting fixtures and so forth. This work brought exciting news when they unearthed an original fireplace in the local history room.

- The project team secured the necessary approvals from state and local agencies such as historical commissions and districts, the Architectural Access Board, local Zoning and Planning Boards, the state Department of Transportation, etc.
- Cost estimates have repeatedly been reviewed and updated, showing the project below budget.
- Additional borings and testing of the soils were conducted, to avoid surprises during construction.
- We secured the first state grant payment of $1.6 million.
- The technology planning for the library's public and staff functions has begun.
- The supplies and equipment for converting the library's collections from barcode to RFID technology have been acquired, and the conversion work is underway.
- And as you know, we moved the library to a temporary site at 214 Lake Street.

Keep your eyes open as you pass by the Main Street building. Soon the construction will begin, and we can then look forward to moving back to our "new library" in the summer of 2016.

Sincerely,

Ellen Dolan

Good News Alert!

Exciting news about the English Conversation Circle program – Thanks to a $4,000 grant from the Robert W. Booth Fund in Memory of George F. Booth of the Greater Worcester Community Foundation we will continue to offer 4 sessions a week for adults wanting to learn English. For details about this program, contact Priya Rathnam at 508-841-8531.

Remembering Willow...

The library has lost one of its most special and non-traditional volunteers. Willow was a former greyhound racing dog, who was adopted by library trustee Nancy Gilbert in 2005. She became a certified therapy dog and soon became part of the R.E.A.D. (Reading Education Assistance Dogs) program at the library, serving from 2006 until 2014. The purpose of the program is to help children from grades K to 3 develop a love for reading through their love for animals. Willow was a perfect candidate, with her sweet, gentle, calm nature. "The kids think it's fun to read to a dog", says Nancy. "It helps to give them confidence in their reading ability because, after all, a dog doesn't criticize or correct. They just listen. Once, when Willow was so relaxed that her eyes closed, a young reader paused to ask if she was really listening. I pointed out that she could concentrate better that way. He said that made sense and resumed the story." She was instrumental in helping many kids overcome their fear of dogs, just by her quiet, gentle demeanor.

In addition to her READ duties, Willow represented the library by marching in several "Spirit of Shrewsbury" parades. She campaigned for the new library project, standing out with fellow supporters wearing a "Vote Yes" sign. The Shrewsbury Public Library and community will surely miss this beloved volunteer...truly our library's best friend.
